Hi. I am interested in particepating as crew for the Summer Women's collective. I am a photographer and digital media artist. I have also been taking a film class at SMC so I know how to set up a C stand and well set up lights, though I am new to it. I am flexible. I have been on 200 productions as an extra/ actress and well I have a reel on IMDB.

This is my "digital" site with my production resume. <http://womenlovepeace.artistichope.com/>

I am kind of open. I just learned how to pull focus today on the spot in my film filnal while we were shooting a short. I want to learn more, but not risk the quality of the final project since I am learning. i have a lap top PC with adobe cs 4 on it MASTERS collection- photo shop, premiere pro, etc. I have a CANON 20 D- so no video. This is my first time with this project so I don't know is it like teams shoot a short in 24 hours all women?

I want to work in art direction and set photographey but for now for this- as a newbie- open. Keep in mind learning but experienced if that makes sense. I would say not camera unless still or lights/ props and helping with sets.

So maybe production stills on a set, and perhaps shadow camera on another?
