Man your killing me right, dude.

As far as my daughter and her singing, I am a singer and a assistant choir director. I was trained in classical music and conducting. So, I already know the deal. Next, I did not lie to you, what I said was truth. I know that the truth hurts because it's killing you now. What makes you think I have that much power to tell Central Casting anything, especially about you. If I do have that power I would be working for Central Casting. Hello Cuke!

I was just checking on you man, to see if you were alright. Don't make me regret it.

All I got to say is that the devil is a lie. Until you realize that you will never move with your life. I will not let the devil move me. You let the devil move you every time you breath. Making you sick, hating yourself and others around you, making you paranoid like the world is against you, and lowest point of all, wanting to end your life. Your body and life doesn't belong to you, it belongs to God. Right now your living through the flesh and the flesh is your enemy.

Any weapon formed against me shall not prosper, because I am covered in the blood of Jesus.

So think what you want, say what you want, God knows the truth and I am comfortable about know that.

Merry Christmas

YOur daughter just called me. I don't want her to be in the middle of our fight. I would never hurt her or her opinion of you. You misjudged me and you violated my trust. I could hear your husband in the background when your daughter asked about my acting and he said something about "I knew." What? I am a sane person trying to hold onto the only dream that kept me fighting for my life- my own vision of my future which did not include being a star but in just working at things I loved- being on sets and building web sites (which i actually hate doing now if I can't occasionally be on sets.) I am not a monster nor am I someone to be manipulated. I know your daughter called me because she missed me. I miss her. But I will not put her in between us, so I did not agree to see her or make any false promises to her. I've been up your way to shoot things. Until I find out what really happened with Central, my trust in you is gone. If you had stood by me as you said you would instead of lying to me, I'd still be your friend. YOur lied Nicki, but I am not going to tell your daughter how you betrayed me. Take care of her. Teach her to exercise and not over do it. If she wants to sing louder, she needs to get her lungs stronger. She needs to learn to stretch before and after singing and working out. Yoga is something you might want to consider for her. She can learn a few simple stretch poses that will relax her body and align her back to help her voice. Frankly if you had not done what you did, I'd volunteer to come up there and teach her what I learned at AADA about the voice. What you don't know about me is I can sing.

Another thing, I started with Scientology around the time I was taking classes with Will and noticed a change in behavior with him after he found out. I am glad I walked away from them, but that changes nothing. I am not violent or hurtful and I've been through enough pain. I've had the only thing that was boosting my confidence shattered. And for the records I made $13000 a year from Central alone for 4 years. I've been on every studio lot with no problems or hassles. I've worked on set and been around tons of celebrities and never caused a problem. I probably have more set experience now than Will Wallace does. I'm in the making of Clover field and that actor guy I told you about, Kelly, is still my friend.

Peace and best to you, but the only future I wanted was working on sets and building web sites. I was writing my own show when half my income was taken, and I've been too traumatized to write since. I was growing at my own speed. I am not the dangerous one. Someone willing to strip me of my dignity and 4 years of hard work. I am also SAG eligible. I've been eligible since before the cancer. I've already talked to SAG lawyers about my status and I still have it and someone would have to take me to court to take it away. With everything I know, I don't think anyone will. I am a Democratic liberal who voted for Obama and is a pacifist who does not like guns or violence. I do not like liars or deceptive people. I keep confidences, and there are people I know who know I do.

Haven't you learned yet that I am a smart and honorable person. I would not be surprised if you did not call me to find out if I was going to still be here in LA. Someone wants me to stay now and frankly, I want to go back to DC and work on Lincoln next summer. I have my own goals and plans. They don't involve anyone else and I am not interested in games or others agendas or business.

Truly,

Laura

Which of these is true... you either did or did not call the police when you know I would not hurt you? And I hope your father is OK?

I never would. I am a pacifist and anti-war and you know that. This all happened after I applied for a job at TVI. You are purposefully trying to destroy my life and you threatened me. Or as you put it in your voice mail to me- "This problem needs to go far away." I will not be threatened like this by you. I live in Hollywood. When was the last time I even came to visit you??? I said people kept asking about Palmdale and if you filled a police report against me it is a matter of public record. People in my industry dig for stuff like that. I don't need help, other than being allowed to be the person I am and pursuing the career in the industry I want without people like you in my life. You are no friend of mine.. That's a friend, because if I wasn't, I would have said, DO IT. I stayed on the phone with you because I was scared. You would tell me where you live for me to comfort you. I called the sheriff so they can help me find you. It turned into a everyday thing with you. SELFISH, SELFISH, SELFISH!!!!!! You're acting like a victim, and you want a pity party and I can't do this with you anymore. Also, stop acting like people at your job know me, or I will sue you for slander. You have all the signs of a school shooter. You really need to get some help. I hate to see wasted talent.

The reality is that this is my life and my world too in California, and frankly since there are people on sets who have asked me about Palmdale and in a way you- I'd say someone is talking. YOU contacted the one person in LA who you know has reasons to hurt me and basically gave him information that could end up ending my life. How dare you? In fact what you did was about as abusive as some of the men I know were in your past. You are not being smart either. Because to me moving on from what I am doing now, means staying where I am and continuing to work on sets. I guess I do have friends here, because I am managing to still work. I am not a bitch. I am a woman who knows the difference between right and wrong and knows what a real friend is. What you

Dear Will:

I just worked a 14 hour day and this may not be the best time for me to write this, but I need to finish this chapter in my life and fully move forward. As you know already, I am never coming back to class. It does not matter whether I am working on the day of class or not, your class is not a healthy place for me to be. There are several reasons for this. First reason is that I should have never started taking classes from you in the first place.

Whether you want to believe me or not, I am a professional. I want to be the best actress I can be. It is important to me to make a living doing the one thing that makes me want to live and be whole and healthy. To help others I must be OK. You once told me that, as an actress, I should always follow my instincts. Well, my instincts told me I needed to pursue a career in film to be happy about life again, and for the longest time I did not listen. I have discovered recently that the only place for me to be happy is on a set. I will never be a nine to fiver and I will never be content otherwise. No one has the right to dictate who you are, or what your potential is, only you can determine that.

The day I gave up a beautiful place to live because it was on Croft street three blocks away from you was when I realized that I could not be in your class anymore. I got tired of stalking comments and comments about the fact that the only reason I was in the class had nothing to do with my talent. You and I both know the truth, and that there was nothing between us. We connected briefly as friends, but became almost enemies, though it was unnecessary. I had no expectations in regards to a relationship with you. Though I will admit I had feelings for you and I would never want to see you hurt in anyway. I care about people, and I want to have a teacher I can respect as a person. I also respect people enough to respect your relationship with Kristin, and I told you that.

Why am I stressing this to you now? Well, I feel that I can not trust you with my life. You see in order for me to live I have to be able to make money to keep the roof over my head. The only way for me to support myself and to truly be content and healthy and whole is to find ways to be on sets. I love it more than I have ever loved anything. I have not loved life for so long, I had forgotten what it truly meant to enjoy getting out of bed and doing a task that made me excited and like a kid in the candy store with cash to spend. My true nature is to be like a child- Nature's first Green is Gold.

The truth of the matter is that I took myself out of IMDB because I feel that I will never be able to achieve my goals as long as I am connected to you. I do not trust you. When you informed me that you did not give me a part in the Pearl for an ulterior motive, it made me think you did. For all I know you put me in the Pearl to be fair, so you could use the rest of the class in Cake. I just do not like being handed something like that for any other reason than the fact that I earned the part. I have nothing to hide. I also do not feel I did a good job with that movie. This way if I suck as an actress, I can not tarnish your reputation anymore. I also do not want you to think I told you about how I felt, simply to get a part from you. I am too ethical for that.

I want to believe you are a good person, Will. I want to believe that you would not do anything to jeopardize someone else's career choices and dreams. I do not care for fame or fortune. For the first time in my life I am happy. I am stressed and scared, but every time I walk onto a set or location I am so grateful for the opportunity to see actors work or meet different people who have similar interests to mine. If I were to die tomorrow, I would know that for the first time in my life I was really enjoying myself. If I do well, a part of me would like to say, Will Wallace taught me this. But I will not. Maybe you were trying to protect your relationships, I can respect anyone who is driven by love. But you could have just talked to me and settled this whole thing. You could have just started being a teacher to me. Instead, you continued to pair me with Michael, even though I informed you I did not want to be paired with him. I do not know if other factors may have been involved beyond my actions. I know how easy it would be for someone to come to you and say I said something, or did something, I did not say or do. I hate gossip.

I just want to work Will, as an actress. I did not express my feelings to you, so you could destroy my one dream. I came to realize that I can not pursue any other career goals for myself to be truly whole and happy, and I will not sacrifice myself for you or anyone else. I want to live. I do not want to be unhappy, or miserable. I am a decent person, with an open mind. I wanted to be able to hire you for a private to work on a monologue or ask for career advice- that is why I wanted to meet with you for coffee, because I am drowning here. I wanted friendship. I have never seen any of your movies, outside of the ones you told me I could come see (i.e. Cheater and Spanish Fly). . I only know you can act from your teaching in class. Some guy tried to pick me up once by telling me he produced "Fish," which I know you produced because I looked it up (though I could tell the guy was lying at the time and he got no where). I also would not date someone simply because they were "famous". I'm telling you this because I got tired of certain individuals making comments about me latching onto a celebrity. I have high standards for the people I want to associate with, because I spent 4 years in a relationship with someone who emotionally suppressed me. I'm staying single.

Think about this Will . . . How would you feel if you were told you could never act or make another movie for the rest of your life? Would a part of you feel empty and incomplete, as though you knew there was something you had to contribute, but your freedom of choice was taken away?

Your friend from Texas, the writer was right, I am genuine. I want to live and I want to love life. I will do what I have to do to protect myself and my dream, because despite what you may think- I have value. I came close to giving Kristin my number that day on the set, because I thought we could become friends, but your attitude toward the entire situation prevented me from giving her that courtesy. I react better to people who are straight with me, instead of trying to manipulate me into doing what they want.

I am not perfect, neither are you. I cannot assume you think I have no talent. I remember that you were talking to the class about how other directors might think some have talent, where you would not. When I walked in, Michael turned to me and said he never said I did not have talent. If a person can have a moment that is good in an acting class, I believe the person can expand that moment, and grow from it. Anyone can learn to act if they work at it.

I was honest when I said I wanted to teach, but I think I was grasping for a safety zone, a place where no one could destroy my dreams. Little kids are usually very honest, for they have not learned to lie. I wanted a place where I could go back to being a little girl who would not be used or lied about or humiliated or devalued. I love kids and I enjoy being around them, and one day I want one of my own. (Not with you, which someone in class inferred from my comment. That would be insane. You do not like me that way.) I had every intention of leaving the entertainment profession and saying goodbye to all of this. However, the seeds of this industry were planted in me a long time ago. I have wanted this long before I knew who you were. I can still be a little girl, and a professional in this industry. It is the only place I am happy, and I have a right to work hard to try to achieve this career.

I was honest with you Will. I did not leave your class to go to another class. I can not afford to take classes right now, and if I did I would probably try to go to Play House West, or one of the academies. I want to be the best I can at this. I could not even really say goodbye to anyone that day, and just went to my car and cried all the way home. I do not have the money to take lessons at this time, but I love the arts and entertainment, and I cannot be happy pursuing any other career. I am appealing to your goodness, Will Wallace. If you have in any way treated me the way you did other students, criticizing me out of anger, please fix your actions. Be truly Christian.

Goodbye, Will. I hope that you do win an Oscar someday. For now you will be taken off my resume and I have to start all over again here. It will make it harder for me, but I would rather fight for this, because I need something to fight for. It seemed to me as though you did not want me to be accepted by anyone in the class. I have been bullied most of my life. I had no expectations for anything from you, but I did not expect a negative return. Do not blame me for the gossip and immaturity of others. You're only limits are the ones you set for yourself. Peace and love to you and yours.

And for the record, I prefer genuine people in my life, and I have no tolerance for a Mr. Hollywood, friend or otherwise. As far as I am concerned, I do not know you. You are a teacher I had, that is all. You once told me that I needed to be willing to do what ever it took to act. I am strong enough to deal with my knee pain, and I am ethical enough to do what is right. I do not want you to say I can not act, so you do not exist to me anymore. I am mature enough to have dealt with you as just a friend. I wish you had been professional enough to not treat me as an immature little girl after you. Please, send me a copy of the Pearl when it is done- for my grandchildren someday- God willing.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to you out of concern for an event that took place this past year at Actor Fest. I am an actress and SAG and I have attended the festival numerous times since 2004. Per usual, Actor Fest provided an opportunity to meet and greet Casting individuals. It is a great opportunity. However, this past year I wanted to point out some unfair practices that happened in the process.

I attended as a free attendee and did not pay for any extra workshops. I waited in line for two hours to see a certain CSA member. As I stood in line, others around me would go see someone then have someone hold their place and circle around and come back in and go see someone else. I did not partake in this, nor do I really know the names of those who did. I believe in doing the right thing. I am also not a snitch. In the past there was a ticket system and you got a ticket, had to use the ticket by meeting with an agent and were given another ticket before you left to get in line again and could not get in without one. I am not sure if this would solve this problem.

I was also concerned because I get up to the front and am told that the person I want to see is no longer taking people and their line is closed, so I go to another line. However I later see volunteers taking people from the line and putting them in the line I wanted to be in. This happened twice. Again, I never butted. I waited in line. As some would say, I know how to follow directions. I actually saw a volunteer take people from behind me and put them in the line I wanted to be in and then was told the line I wanted to be in was closed. I do not look like your typical Hollywood starlet, but I am an actress and trained and I know there are roles for me. I am a retired lawyer. We may be losing our rights, but I for one want to fight for mine until the bitter end. I wanted to meet both Kerry Barden and Rick Millikan. I am not a diva. I was happy to get to meet the casting agents I did meet, but at the same time being punished for others inappropriate actions is not professional in my opinion, nor is subjecting someone to prejudice, either by money or fame or lack of fame. If backstage is going to have free meet and greets on a first come first served basis, it should be that without favoritism from volunteers. I even pointed out to the volunteer who took people from behind me that he in effect cost me anywhere from $45-75 because to actually get to meet these casting agents again I would have to probably pay that much to do a workshop.

I hope that in the future this issue can be remedied and the event held in a more orderly and judicious fashion. FYI. I have only been SAG since June and I've already taped two shorts. I should be treated just like every other SAG member and with respect and professionalism. I would enclose a resume with this document so you know who I am, but due to its content I do not want this to be tossed or treated like a casting submission when it is a genuine concern about the professional conduct of an event with CSA members.

Peace and Happy Holidays.

Truly,

Laura Ann Tull

My husband is like that with everyone. He is very protective of his family and he wants me to feel better before I do anything. Its nothing against you at all. We will definitely get together to make that story. I am glad that you remembered.

Hey. I just talked to your husband. I have a feeling you will not be available Saturday. I don't think your husband approves of our friendship. I am not sure if he is worried I will take from you, or what. My overall impression of the situation is that I do not think he realizes I am a creative force in my own right and I give credit where credit is due. Plus the last time we talked we both came up with a similar story line, but shaped it together. We have similar creative though processes. In fact, I remember, though you may not, coming up with the name Carol or a ghost in Lousiana. I pictured her as white, but really of African descent. For my part there was a birth, and the mother died. I seem to recall you wanted to set it in Louisiana, possibly during the Civil War. You had the idea of a friend to go along with this, and gave the child clarvoyant powers given to her by her mother when she died. We both came up with parts of this story. I have the notes, and also the record of my dream. If written we would share in that. YOur life story is yours to write, just as my breast cancer movie is mine. I have the treatment for that written, but the ending and meat of it is growing still. YOU can't grow without trusting someone to let you fly, especially in this town.

I finished the scarf. I may try to quickly do a hat to go along with it. I can't remember, but I hope she likes purple pink and blue, because I used purple yarn with pink blue and white faux fur. She is getting a furry scarf. Oh and it has a little green in the middle, because I was running low on the one type of faux fur. It is a little uneven, but when warn no one will notice. It has character, and is a definat one of a kind. It is very cute and very furry. It should give her some warmth up there in this cold. I'm low on the fur though so the hat may be just purple yarn with some fur trim to make it match the scarf. I did not want to let her down. I promised something hand made from me, and she is getting it.

Best.

Can you get a break from the kids for a night and come down to LA. My friend is performing at the Magic Castle this week. We could go see the show. We can get in for free. Warning though, it would probably be a late night. I am currently trying to finish my first crochet project since before my surgery. It is a scarf for your daughter. SHHHHHH!!! I don't know how long it will take me to finish, and I will probably mail it to you guys. Actually I am a third done. It is roughly made, but I am using fake fur, so it's texture is really kind of neat.

What are your sons favorite colors? I could guess, but I thought I would ask.

Just FYI. The AADA lets you know within 2 weeks if you get in. "I can act baby." I guess I am just getting tired of the 2-faced behavior here. Also the games people play. I love my life and the shows I do. SOmetimes people seem to enjoy though making others miserable. I don't have very many things that make me happy. I also will probably die in LA, so there is no point trying to make me leave. I still think it is funny that Susie from Will's class is now directing. Touche for her. Vengeance to me only leads to heartbreak. Success is the best revenge.

Hey you,

I need to know what day so I can talk to my husband. My two older kids are visiting my step mom for a few days, so its just me an the babies. Let me know. Thanks for making her a scarf, she would love to have that. I think my son's favorite color is blue and white.

luv, Nicci

Can you get a break from the kids for a night and come down to LA. My friend is performing at the Magic Castle this week. We could go see the show. We can get in for free. Warning though, it would probably be a late night. I am currently trying to finish my first crochet project since before my surgery. It is a scarf for your daughter. SHHHHHH!!! I don't know how long it will take me to finish, and I will probably mail it to you guys. Actually I am a third done. It is roughly made, but I am using fake fur, so it's texture is really kind of neat.

What are your sons favorite colors? I could guess, but I thought I would ask.

truly,

Laura Tull

Do tell! Do tell! I have been really busy with work and home I can't even take a piss! I'm not working anymore so we can get together when you have a min. Here are some pics of my boy. I hope you like them.

Luv Ya!

Laura Tull <summerluvin@earthlink.net> wrote: Hey Nicole... how is the ghost story we talked about writing together going. I keep wanting to meet with you to discuss what i have written in regards to the story. Last we talked you were reading on subjects realted to the tale.

This could be really good. I have the outline I told you I dreamt about in regards to the story.

I hope you and I can flesh out the rest.

P.S. See my website... what do you think?

There are so many possibilities with this idea. the important part is that the basic lives of the characters are told (that is where the story lies).

I am so glad you finally contacted me. I doused my room with holy water again last night. I swear I think someone put a hex on my place. You have much to accomplish still my sister. We have much to do.....

Hey. Unless you respond soon I am going to assume this is the wrong address. I have decided to completely change the script location. A psychic ward is not what I want to represent. I thought about it, and I have serious misgivings about psychological counseling. I am thinking instead of a group guide sort of thing.
