

Being White Privilege and violated for it

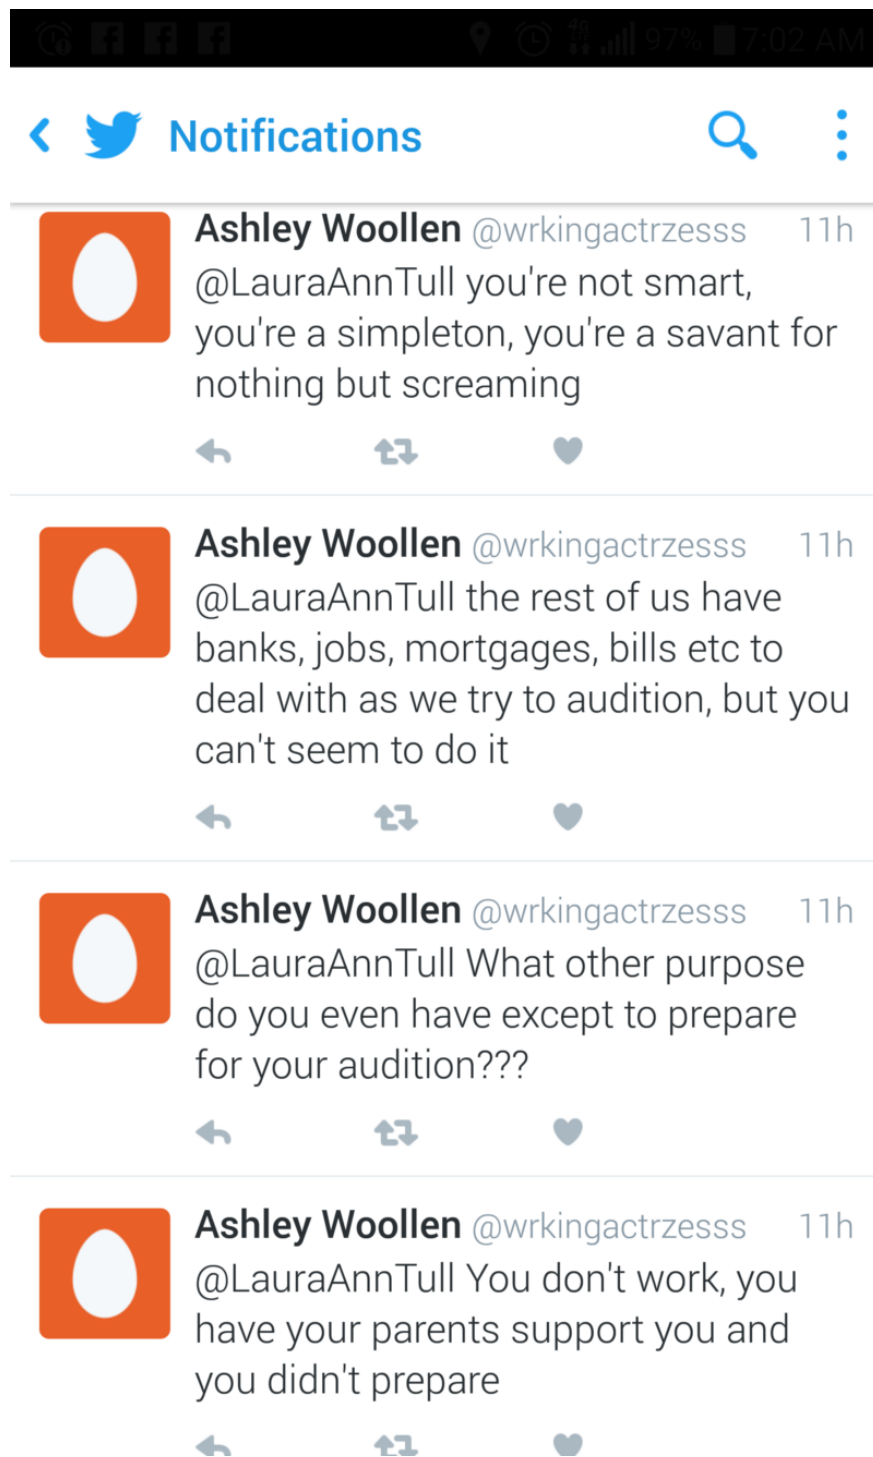

Laura Ann Tull

Sep 12, 2017 · 4 min read

I hated my family growing up on some level. I did not want to. You can't help the family your born into. Yet you are judged for it. I spent part of my childhood hoping I'd find I was adopted. Now I wish more than ever that were true.

I grew up in Maryland but I was born in Virginia. I wonder if I'd turned out to be so different from my family if we had stayed in the state for lovers. I suspect I would have rejected my family's values regardless. There was something in me even as a child that wanted to laugh. I wanted to be happy. I wanted to like people not hate them.

Times have changed. Now I seem to just want all contact with the world to cease. I want to be able to create again. I want to be able to imagine. I want to be me.

Well since 2014 I have been maliciously told by trolls I have white privilege. The above is a sample of her work. She insists she is female. I didn't know I was required to have a mortgage and bills and if I don't I'm not an actor? I have rent. I have a smart phone. I had student loans. I was working on sets full time and I was in school to learn digital media and film making so I could freelance in the industry. Instead I have some dubious actress telling casting I'm lazy and the world I'm banned from sets.

I didn't know having White Privilege was a reason to take things you earned a way. My troll asked why I didn't get a scholarship to USC? I didn't apply for a scholarship at USC but then I didn't want to go to USC. It is a private school and expensive and I don't want more debt. I went to a community college to get skills to train to support acting but not give it up. Instead I've discovered white privilege means I can't be on sets after the age of 35. I have to be in a relationship. And growing up with white privilege means I don't get to have hope or dream.

All the things this troll says are untrue but people have believed them. I'm not moving to New York. I'm not moving to Atlanta. I did not retire from Acting. I'm not interested in reading audio books. Too much strain on my throat and I have a thyroid disease. I'm Buddhist, Vegan, and not a lesbian.

The industry is trying to make me leave and what they are doing is taking from me the one place I can live and deal with my disease. White Privilege means I can be driven out of town. White privilege means I can't find a safe place to practice Buddhism with out being attacked for it.

White privilege means I'm a Trump supporter even though I'm certain I voted for Obama and Hillary. It means native American actresses can act like I'm bothering them since I'm not Jewish or black. By the way I have never been anti semetic. I dated Jews in Grad school. I just do not want to be Jewish.

I suspect no one will read this. If you do comment yes. I know my troll wants me not to have friends because I have white privilege. I'm not to be an editor, photographer, actor, poet, or anything of talent because I have white privilege. I'm to know I'm not special because of white privilege. Then why do I exist? Why should I fight to live? Why should I care about anyone or anything if I'm a nobody and nothing because I'm white and privileged.

I'm sick of the prejudice and ignorance. I'm sick of the perverted racism. I'm sick of being ostracized from feeling safe and having a home. I am home in Los Angeles. I was happy here. I did not commit a crime or a scam or a fraud.

I lost the ability to be a runner in 1997. Losing being an actor leaves me with nothing to live for. I didn't know I was required to have a life like everyone else. I don't want to hang out with friends. I want to be in an acting class. I want to feel safe to write poetry and scripts.

I don't feel safe. I don't feel guilty. I don't want to be around people who don't respect I'm an actor. I don't want to do things I don't like to do. I don't want to make fake friends just to have money.

I'm sick of white privilege ruining my day.

