

Laura Ann Tull

Apr 2, 2017 · 2 min read

I agree. Supply side economics/ Reagenomics is not effective. Principles of keynsian or demand side economics has a greater chance of improving an economy. Happiness in a country is not dependent on GNP. I for one have been attacked over and over for wanting to find employment i can do that effectively uses my skill set while being blacklisted by members of the industry who are probably 45 or Stein supporters. I want to work in and i am being abused because there is the mentality that only people with the most money have rights and if you do not have money or clout the Constitution and the law does not matter. Sag aftra does not care about equaliry. 45 is creating a dangerous situation where people in need of assistance will not get it because their lives are seen as unimportant. I have a law degree but had to quit because I hated it. 85 to 90% of lawyers are employed but only 50% are actually working in law. My background is in theater & film. I worked for the film department in college, a video store, showed trailers for marketing campaigns, did a casting internship for a day in grad school, and spent 5 years on film sets. Yet my union has blacklisted me from events and acts like i am a liar. I have been bullied on Twitter to the point I filed a complaint at my school saying i did not want to work with a student in the class. She turns it around onto me saying i needed to stay away from her. The last time i was at SMC was 03/21/05. My twitter stalker attacks me for going to Venice. Turns out the student I did not want to work with is connected to someone who knows an actor my twitter stalker is obsessed with. That actor knows I am a buddhist who wants to work production and be an actor. Take away the acting community & the industry and i have nothing to work for. Im not wired to be a normal american into the traditional american dream. I thrived being on sets. I want the adrenaline rush of making film amd acting. So for me 45 and the people trying to make me be GOP and go to church are making me become anti social and depressed. I do not need a psychologist. I need justice.

