I agree though 2 years I have been attacked on Twitter and I still want SAG AFTRA to let me have my right back. Ive spent 2 yeaes being called a rascist and not nice when I never want to see my family again for being anti semetic and rascist. I am a liberal raised in Maryland. I honestly think that I was judged on my family and not me. Or well I like tall white guys and that to me has nothing to do with racism. If the guy was black and highly intelligent and liked Duran Duran and Rage and did not curse or swear then I would. Jason George the actor looked at me like he wanted to smack me but i never talked to him. Ive spent 2 yeaes being bullied by someone acting like i deserve to suffer when I lost my breasts to cancer. I worked all through college and grad school and law. I live in a rent control, im constantly fighting bugs, box in east hollywood. And i prefer to shop vintage amd used clothes to sustain the planet and because i like funky hipster & hippy clothing. My twitter stalker berated me for not having my life together and for having white priviledge. They claim however to be white but called me diablo bianco. I still have not changed that i want to make it as a working actor more than i want the traditional American dream. I feel empty and alone with out that dream. And i feel misunderstood by everyone for not letting me keep it.
