

Stealing-script exercise

Laura Ann Tull

May 8, 2018

I've been writing a script in pieces as sort of a workshop. I don't know where this will take me. I have other scripts that I'm working on as well. But this one I've decided to share here. Anyone can create characters if you try.

Please Note- not in correct Script format.

INT. Office - DAY

NANCY (Black 35) sits at her desk typing THOMAS (White 40) walks in looking grim.

THOMAS

Do you have it?

NANCY

(Still typing)

What?

THOMAS

The final summary report?

Nancy looks up perplexed.

THOMAS

I sent you an E-mail.

NANCY

Mark had me going over the presentation. We meet the Board Friday

THOMAS
(Beaten)
Oh.. Right.

NANCY
I'm sorry. Is it that urgent?

THOMAS
You know it is probably nothing.

NANCY
Nothing? You came in here pretty upset for it to be nothing.

THOMAS
Look get the presentation done. If you dont impress the board to go forward what I needed won't matter. And it is probably nothing.

NANCY
Ok.

Nancy goes back to typing. Thomas starts to leave. He turns.

THOMAS
Nancy?

Nancy looks up.

THOMAS
When you get done the presentation then look at my email.

NANCY
Can it wait until Friday?

Thomas's face cringed for a second, then relents.

THOMAS
Yes.

Thomas leaves.

