And I've forgotten nothing. I simply don't want to get tied up with extra work as so many do. It can be a trap. I did the extra work to get the sag vouchers, worked very hard to get them and now I want to work equally hard to get dayplayer. When that is done I won't look back much at that either. I won't think less of being an extra as so many do, I simply want to move ahead. And I have said that I would do Carnival again, but I don't think that Carol needs me much on that. If she does I would work it. I have already stated that. I did not say that I shouldn't be talking to you. You said that. That makes you the person with conditions for the relationship. So, there is no attack. Stick to your guns. Either you want to talk and you do, or you stick by your principles and you don't.
